Mr. Secretary Houston Told You the Truth and the Truth Will Set the South Free.

Of enormous interest to the southern people is the annual report of David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture.

Uncle Jerry Wilson's reports were always buoyant and cheerful. Mr.
Houston's report is faithful, analytical and critical. He sees the weak points in the productive forces of agriculture of every part of the country, and he does not hesitate to dwell upon them.

Our wheat crop in 1914 is the large-est on record. Our cotton crop is also great. The world is crying for our wheat because you can eat wheat. The world is not eager for cotton, because you can't eat cotton.

Man may go partially clothed during his life time. He can comfortably live without clothes six months in the year. He could do without clothing entirely if he began the habit in the spring early in his life.

But man cannot get along 24 hours in comfort without eating, and the average man will starve to death within a week.

The south doesn't raise enough grain. We don't grow enough food stuff to sustain ourselves and our cattle.

In cattle, sheep and hogs all over the United States there has been an absolute decline from the census of 1899 to that of 1909.

The census of cattle in '99 was 50-000,000; in 1909 it was 41,000,000.
There were 61,000,000 head of sheep in the United States in 1899, and only 52,000,000 10 years later. Hogs in that decade fell from 63,000,000 to 58,000-000.

Since 1909 the tendency has been downward, and Mr. Houston dwells upon the fact that from 1899 to this year there has been an increase in population of 20,000,000.

"There is no question," says Mr.
Houston, "that the average farmer in the settled areas can produce without great expense a large number of beef animals if only as by products to the betterment of his farm economy. In this direction the farmer in the south enjoys unusual opportunities.

"The last census," Mr. Houston points out, "shows a lamentable neglect of live stock in the south. The average Iowa farm has six milk cows; in North Carolina and Alabama it has less than two; in South Carolina one.

"The average Iowa farm has 35 hogs; in North Carolina and Alabama it has less than five; in South Carolina less than four.

"The average farmer in Iowa has more than 108 head of poultry; in North Carolina and Alabama he has less than 20; in South Carolina less than 17.

"An investigator recently said that the average farm in Georgia produces less than two eggs a week; less than two-thirds ounces of butter; two-thirds of a pint of milk; one-third of a hog; 1 1-2 of a beef; 1-100 of a sheep a year for each member of the family, and the cotton crop of the state does not pay the state's food and feed bill.

"Twelve southern states import $175,000,000 worth of wheat, corn and oats. The same states import $48,000-000 worth of meat, milk and poultry products."

The south can grow cattle, sheep and hogs as well as any other section of the United States.

There is enough land in the south to grow all the cattle, hogs, sheep and all the feed stuff for hogs that the southern people could consume.

There are enough fence corners and unused scraps of cotton patches where the plowman does not run out to the end of his row to produce vegetables sufficient to feed the southern people.

The labor of one man in the south, equivalent to 10 days' working from sunup to sundown, will produce enough potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, beans and onions to supply vegetables to the average family.

There is enough waste pastureage in the south to graze during the summer cattle sufficient to give us milk and to eat, and hogs sufficient for pork.

The cotton seed mixed with a ration of other stuff we could grow in the south would fatten enough hogs and cattle to make us enormous exporters.

If the south went into diversified farming, there would be work at good wages for every negro on the cotton plantation 300 days in the year, instead of about 120 days in the year.

If the southern farmer and farm laborers consumed half of their idle time in giving attention to corn, oats and live stock, they could produce in this half of their idle time enough to supply the south.

The question of diversification is just as important if cotton were 15 cents a pound as it is when cotton is now seven cents.

The time will come in this country, unless the south itself goes in for live stock and grain, when the diminished supply grown in the west and the north will command such a high price that we can no longer grow cotton even at 15 cents a pound and have any money left when we buy meat and flour at the prices that will prevail.

Some say that the banker will not advance on anything except cotton. In a diversified country the banker is not called on for an advance.

If our southern people would grow their own food stuff on their farms they would not have to borrow money from the banks.

Probably 80 per cent of the money borrowed from banks incident to the growing of cotton is used in buying rations for man and beast.

If the southern farmer would grow upon his own farm what he eats and what his cattle could eat, the banker would lend him sufficient money for small needs without a mortgage.

If we do as Mr. Houston suggests, instead of being a year behind, we would be even every year.

We pay our merchant once a year, and the merchant settles with his bank once a year. If we were to diversify we could pay our merchants at least four times a year. We could sell hogs twice a year, cattle at least once a year and cotton when the market suited us.

The small farmers of Kentucky, parts of Missouri and Indiana pay their grocery bills with their surplus butter and eggs.

We don't know what the next year will bring forth.

Cotton may run to 15 cents a pound, and it may go to four cents. If cotton does go to 15 cents a pound, you may be sure that wheat will be $1.25 a bushel and corn $1 a bushel, and meat "higher than a cat's back."

If cotton should go still further down you can eat the chickens you may grow, the pigs you may grow, and not go further in debt.

The difference between one crop and diversified crops is the difference between a debtor and creditor people.

So long as the south sticks to one crop the south will always be in debt.

We would be in debt on one crop if we got 20 cents a pound for cotton, because the prospects of that price would immediately increase our propensities to waste.

A one-crop plan is bad spiritually and socially. It does not take but a few months to grow it, and the rest of the time is spent in idleness. Idleness begets extravagance and other bad habits.

Diversification gives diverse occupations all the days of the year. It brings into every day the joy of work which consists in producing and increasing.

Prohibition sweeps over the south for the reason that about half the time our people are idle, and being idle, they gather around depots and villages or go to the big town, and if there is any liquor about usually they consume part of it.

If our people were more busy the year around they would set aside a time for their recreation, enjoy their holidays, whereas now one who is idle loafs, and in loafing there is neither moral nor material forces of development. Loafing is loafing and not recreation.

Corn, sheep, cattle, hogs, cow peas and sweet potatoes, as well as cotton, make for independence in the south, better living conditions, better morals and better manners and a higher spirituality. Diversification means independence, a higher average of prosperity, better health and better morals.

HOMESEEKERS POUR

INTO MISSISSIPPI

Hundreds of Immigrants Take Up

Farming and Dairying.

The south bound Illinois Central train Wednesday afternoon of last week, brought into Jackson four coach loads of thrifty white farmers from various states in the middle west and east seeking locations on Mississippi soil.

One large party was headed for Centreville, in Wilkinson county, where more than 100 white families from states in the middle west have purchased lands during the past few months and are now engaged in building up a northern colony to engage in diversified farming.

Another party, in charge of an immigration agent of the Mississippi Central road, was composed of expert dairymen from Vermont, who have purchased lands in the vicinity of Sumrall. The International Harvester company will establish a model demonstration farm near Sumrall.

The railroad companies are devoting much time, money and energy to the immigration movement and it will no doubt be given a great impetus by the present zero weather throughout the north and east. The usual homeseeker excursion rates are being made.

Mr. W. R. Ritch Spends Day With Mr. Zeller.

This week at the request of Mr.
Zeller Mr. W. R. Ritch went out and spent the day looking over and advising him as to the best methods to use in draining his farm, near Eden.
Mr. Zeller realizes that though he has the theory alright that the man who has had the experience is worth while, and for this reason he was co-operating with Mr. Ritch in his efforts to have the best results from this year's crop which has ever been harvested in the history of the county.

Mr. Zeller has a fine farm of 1,700 acres, about half hill and the rest rich delta land. He has started in the best results that can be produced with intelligence, science and energy.
Mr. Zeller has a fine pasture fenced and in this he has some fine cattle and hogs which he expects to increase as the demand for such things increase.
On the farm he is using the same wisdom of studying the soil and plant so that each plant will be in the soil that is best adapted to the growth and fruiting of that plant. He expects to use the best methods of planting and will fertilize with an eye single to the kind and quality of the soil that has to be fed artificially.

To know how to apply fertilizer and the proper time is one thing that must be given proper thought if the real results which one expects is to be realized. Mr. Zeller is quite enthused over the prospect and like all good things it is infectious and his neighbors are sharing his interest by taking on new life and giving him every encouragement and support in his work. Though Mr. Zeller is finely educated, he realizes that he can still be taught and gladly took advantage of our farm demonstrator to assist him in the pitching of his present crop. Mr. Ritch was delighted to go and is quite jubilant over the way Mr. Zeller treated him and his work and especially was he charmed with the courtesies shown by Mrs. Zeller and her interesting family of five girls and one boy. Also Mr. Horace Prince, who will be with the Zeller family this year, his wife will join him soon, she is now in Chicago visiting relatives.

Mr. Ritch was surprised and delighted to see Mr. Zeller's library, which consists of 3,500 volumes and when packed weighs 14 tons. Mr. Ritch says that it is the largest private library he ever saw.

Mr. Ritch was so filled with the possibilities which he saw in the future for the Zeller farm and of the cordial welcome which was given him and his work not only by Mr. Zeller, but the neighbors, who all are anxious to see success attend Mr. Zeller and in a few years Mr. Zeller will bless the day when he turned his face towards Yazoo for a home.
